BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Growth of Glendale for the Year 1907.

While it is not practicable to give a list of the new houses built in Glendale during the year just ended, the following will give a very fair idea of the progress made:

Lomita Park.

This section, extending from Sixth to near Ninth street and from Central avenue to Glendale avenue, shows the greatest progress for any such confined area. This tract was put on the market in January, 1905. Since that date eighty houses have been erected, thirty of them during the year just ended. The latest building to be started here is a fine two-story residence on the corner of Sixth and Central avenue, which is being built by Mr. J. W. Lawson, a recent arrival from Wisconsin. It promises to be among the best of the many fine residences which are located at Lomita Park.

On the east side of Glendale, along Verdugo Road, south of Fourth street, there has been no fifty-foot lot subdivision, a fact which accounts largely for the comparatively few new buildings that have been erected during the last year, in this, one of the most attractive sections of our valley. Among the improvements on acreage, however, in the southeasterly corner of Glendale City, is the fine one-story residence with cellar and high stone foundation built by Mrs. Verdugo on a part of their old home property on the east side of Verdugo Road. Just north of that on the same bench giving a fine outlook over the valley Mr. McLafferty has a commodious two-story residence, and adjoining that on the north Mr. Madill has erected a two-story residence on his nine-acre ranch. On Third street, east of Verdugo Road, Willis R. Norton has a fine story and a half residence. The greatest development as far as buildings are concerned, in this neighborhood, is along the extension of Second street, east of Verdugo Road. Seven or eight residences have been built here during the past year and Contractor L. A. Warner is now at work on a fine residence for Mr. L. E. Brockman, on the south side of Second street, which will cost about $3000. It is a story and a half of the bungalow order structure, with eight rooms, two toilets, bathroom and other modern conveniences. Near by, Mr. Ross has a two-story seven-room residence, costing about $3000.

Prof Knowles has a story and a half five-room residence here. Messrs. Stuart, Farrand and Thatcher are among other residents here who have built within the past year.

Along Brand Boulevard, the most noticeable among the new structures is the Glendale Country Club house, on the corner of Third street, a handsome structure with well-kept grounds, costing about $12,000. On Orange street Mr. Rawlins built a fine home costing about $3500. On the corner of Orange and First street, Mr. P. F. Johnston is putting up a large two-story residence with concrete foundation which will cost at least $4000.

Among the notable residences built in this section during the year are those erected by C. J. Fox on Brand Boulevard and Fifth street; Geo. T. Holman on Orange street; J. A. Cole, Brand Boulevard near Second; T. K. Holme, Second and Brand Boulevard.

There have been a number of fine houses put up during the year in the Orange Grove and the McIntyre-Miner Tract, between Fourth and Sixth streets east of Glendale avenue; among them one built by Mr. Fairlie costing $4000; A. L. Eves, $2500; Mrs. Marchant, $3500, and one now being commenced by Mr. Johnston which will cost about $3500. Mr. Johnston is building a similar house for his own home, on Fourth street near Glendale avenue. On Adams street Mr. Peterson has put up a $4000 residence. On Cedar street north of Third the handsome residence of F. W. McIntyre has been built, costing about $7500. On the same street north of Second are the residences of A. K. Crawford, Edgar W. Pack, E. D. Reynolds and Garfield Jones, built in the early part of the year. Between Glendale avenue and the boulevard a number of new residences have sprung into being, among them that of E. K. Grant in the Livingston tract, near Second street; A. Ambrosini, Fifth and J, and others too numerous to mention. Outside the city limits but all in our home neighborhood there have been wonderful developments. First in importance may be named the building up of the Valley View Tract fronting on Central avenue; over ninety houses, having been built in this tract, nearly all of them since January 1st of this year, and the work still goes on. Messrs. Hawcroft & Edmonston have houses in course of construction now on Central avenue, and others are going up in other portions of the tract. In the immediate neighborhood of Casa Verdugo, about twenty houses have been built since the year opened, and at the corner of Viola and Iornin streets we find Mr. H. M. Clayton working on a six-room up-to-date bungalow that will probably cost $2500 or more.

There has been an awakening as to improvements up in the neighborhood of the West Glendale School house. A fifty-acre tract here has passed into the possession of the Beal Realty company of Los Angeles. They have already erected ten houses of an excellent type and are disposing of them to home-seekers, with the promise of further work of development along this line. There have been some very fine buildings and numerous homes built up west of the city limits and on the northern line of Tropic, notably the home of Mr. Oxnam, on Central avenue. Along the foothills of North Glendale three or four magnificent residences have been erected on commanding sites overlooking the valley. In all directions, indeed, there have been houses erected during the past year, which are occupied by families, a census of which would doubtless show that within a radius of a mile and a half from Fourth and Glendale avenue, there has been an increase of 1000 in population since January 1st of this year.

LOS ANGELES AQUEDUCT.

Second Annual Report of the Big Undertaking.

The second annual report of the Los Angeles aqueduct scheme has been submitted by Chief Engineer Wm. Mulholland. He reports the total expenditures up to November 1st as being $1,475,050.47, of which sum $1,102,799.88 was for land and rights of way. The ratio of expenditure to the total estimated construction cost is 1.6 per cent.

The most expensive single piece of work connected with the aqueduct is the Elizabeth Lake tunnel, 26,863 feet in length. This work is the gauge for the time required for completing the aqueduct. During 1908 the work will be concentrated on this tunnel, railroad construction, completion of power plants, the building of cement mill at Tehachapi and the opening of the Jawbone division near Mojave. Approximately the city has acquired possession of 3430 acres of land in the vicinity of Tehachapi.

Mr. Mulholland reports that the investigations of the water supply in the Owens river valley are being continued by the hydrographic branch of the United States geological survey. This work is paid for by the federal government. All other expenses are being paid by the city of Los Angeles.

At Haiwee the dam will be built by the hydraulic sluicing process. A pipe line will be laid from the point where the Haiwee creek leaves the mountain, 19,500 feet long, to the south dam site. At Grapevine, a rough locality, eight miles of line out of a total of twenty-three miles have been located. Twenty miles of wagon road have been constructed on the Freeman division. The city has obtained possession of two springs and a small creek near the head of Sage canyon in the Sierra forest reserve. The ground has been cleared for piping an approximate distance of 30,000 feet.

Jawbone division is one of the roughest pieces of work on the entire aqueduct. It is 22.4 miles long and out of twenty-two miles, only 6.4 miles of final location have been completed. A well has been sunk to a depth of sixty feet in Jawbone canyon and the water will be piped 11,800 feet to the aqueduct. On the Antelope valley division the location has been run 17.3 miles out of a total of twenty-seven miles. At Elizabeth Lake, 165 feet of tunnel has been excavated and timbered at an approximate cost of $12.50 a foot. On division 11, 53.6 miles of preliminary surveys have been run.

Mr. Mulholland estimates that 20,000,000 ton miles of freight must be moved between Mojave and Owens valley points. This means that the freight moved on the aqueduct will be equal to 20,000,000 tons carried one mile.

Bids have been called twice for transporting freight by wagon in this region and the best price obtained was twenty-eight cents a ton, a mile. Estimates have been prepared on the cost of the city building the railroad and moving the freight on its own rails, disposing of the equipment at the end of the work. This estimate shows a cost of ten cents a ton a mile.

"Negotiations were taken up with the Southern Pacific company, the Santa Fe and the Western Pacific, requesting them to construct this road, and offering aqueduct freight as an inducement," Mr. Mulholland reports. "As a result the Southern Pacific company put locating parties in the field in the spring of 1907, and they have completed a definite railroad location survey from Mojave to Lone Pine. The other railroads mentioned did not show an inclination to undertake this construction.

"Bids have been called for the building of this road and the transportation of this freight. These bids will be opened Jan. 10, 1908. The officials of the Los Angeles aqueduct have the assurance from the officials of the Southern Pacific company that they will bid on its proposition at an average rate of less than six cents a ton a mile, a saving of four cents to the city, representing an economy of more than $800,000. The construction of such a road will not only provide a new out let from Los Angeles to Ogden, but also tend to make commercially tributary to this city a large undeveloped district rich in mineral resources." "All work on the aqueduct has been done by day labor employed by the city. Funds are not available for entering into extensive construction contracts, and it is desirable to determine what the actual cost of various classes of construction is, prior to the letting of contracts.—Los Angeles News.

CASH OR BONDS.

The question of the advisability of making street improvements, under the original Vrooman act, which provided cash payment, thirty days being allowed after completion of the work in which to pay the assessment, or under the amended act, which provides for an issue of bonds, payable in ten years, is one of interest to property owners in this city, as much such work is to be done in Sierra Madre from this time on. All are agreed in regard to the desirability and necessity of such improvements, and the great benefits accruing to the owners of improved property, but different views are held as to which method of payment should be adopted.

It is claimed by those who favor the cash basis, that the work can be done at such a great reduction in cost compared with the bond method as to make it very desirable to adopt this plan. This appears to be the view held by the city trustees. In a discussion of this question by the board Wednesday night City Attorney Walter F. Haas, who has had extensive experience in this class of work, advised strongly against the bond proposition, stating that contractors when bidding upon the work usually add about 25 per cent, or more to the amount of their bid to enable them to discount the bonds. This is especially true in small cities, whose bonds are as a rule much more difficult to float than those of the larger municipalities. Additional expense is also incurred by the city, such as the cost of lithographing the bonds, and the like.

Another, and a serious objection urged to this system is the fact that the bonds are a lien against the property for the entire period of ten years, and cannot be released unless the holder is willing to accept the cash, which does not often happen, as the bonds draw 10 per cent. interest. This often causes trouble in the transfer of property.

But there are two sides to every question, and in some cases the deferred payment, even at a largely increased cost, is an advantage. As we understand the matter, the trustees have adopted the cash payment plan in the cases of Mountain Trail, Baldwin and Central avenues, but upon petition of a majority of the property owners on any street to be improved they would no doubt proceed under the bond system.—Sierra Madre News.

GLENDALE, CAL., JANUARY 4, 1908

That Pennsylvania minister who refused to accept a present of some new gold coins because they did not have the inscription "In God we trust," has a peculiar bent of mind. It is not recorded that Jesus reprimanded his disciples for using the pagan money which had the image and superscription of Cæsar upon it. There are infinitely better ways in which the nation and the individuals composing it can show their faith in the Supreme Being than by having it asserted through the medium that is sometimes known as "filthy lucre."

A negro woman, Meta Vaux War-rick, is astonishing the art critics by her work as a sculptor; and a negro painter, H. O. Tanner, is receiving high honors in eastern cities where his work comes into competition with that of the best American artists. Paul Dunbar, a negro poet who died recently, left a small volume of poems bearing the unmistakable imprint of genius.

Sculpture, painting, poetry; the trinity of art! With the doorways of knowledge and culture opening to the race that has been looked down upon for ages, the world may see soon some startling developments come out of Africa!

The Case of Dr. Lanterman

Dr. Lanterman, occupying the position of coroner in this county, was arrested a week or so ago while in a state of intoxication at a house of ill repute in Los Angeles. By a rare chance the affair became public and the probability is that, under an old law which makes it possible to remove a public official any time when he is incapacitated from the performance of duty, he will be forcibly ejected into private life, as he does not seem to possess sufficient grace to impel him to resign.

We remember the doctor as a prominent youth, and regret that with the opportunity he had to lead a useful life, he preferred to travel in the ways that lead downward. There are those of his friends who will claim that he was the victim of wine and women, but these pleas simply beg the question and shift from the individual the responsibility for his actions, which every human being should be ready to accept.

Los Angeles county has as a rule officials who are not likely to disgrace themselves and their positions, being men of good repute in their private lives. It will be well for the community if something of an example is made of Dr. Lanterman. The sort of thing that he was guilty of is too common in all large cities; the culprits of the "fast set" are treated with tolerance by the peace officers as a rule, usually being gently bundled into a hack and sent as quietly as possible to their homes.

Not under the present regime, but previously, we have seen a "well-known citizen" go into the police office at midnight in a state of intoxication, armed with a revolver, and challenge the officers to arrest him, which they did not do. It will have a salutary effect upon this class of "gentlemen" to find that there is a chance, altho somewhat remote, that they may have to undergo, at least in a modified degree, the treatment accorded the common drunkard.

The News Bureau of Perkins

From time to time the News receives a circular letter from Washington, franked by Senator Perkins. We noted the perfectly harmless tone of the first of the series, feeling assured that in the progress of time we should learn just what our senator from the north is up to. The last that comes to hand discloses the honorable gentleman's position in regard to the president to whom reference is made as follows:

"President Roosevelt, according to the published statement of Mayor Dahlgren of Omaha, accepts responsibility for the recent panic, the ultimate effects of which are not yet felt. The financial community long ago fixed the blame upon his shoulders, and the mercantile and manufacturing world is thinking similar thoughts as business diminishes, etc."

There is more of the same tenor and then a reference to the Brownsville matter concerning the discharge of the colored troops, in which the statement is made that the investigation into the matter has disclosed the fact that examination of the bullets shows that they are of a kind not used in the ammunition with which the soldiers are supplied. Then we are informed that "This is a point of great importance, and is a further justification of Senator Foraker's criticism of the president."

So it becomes evident that the senator does not approve of the president. Neither we believe does the Southern Pacific railroad and some other "business interests," all of which is very sad, but we are a little surprised that the fact is disclosed so early in the campaign. Senator Perkins has been known to change his mind in reference to weighty matters of state more than once during his career as senator presumably owing to the proper application of pressure in the right place at the right time. If he does not do so, in this instance it will probably be because the higher power is indifferent as to what his opinion happens to be. Nevertheless, it will be a matter of interest to note the name of the fortunate candidate for the presidency whom the senator does favor. We doubt whether the "business interests" have yet decided that weighty question.

Making the City Attractive

This is a subject that the residents of our small city are properly interested in. We want to see well graded streets bordered with rows of shade trees fronting our handsome homes, attractive grounds and lots which even if lacking improvements, shall not be made offensive to the eye by a growth of weeds or a display of garbage.

The idea conveyed nearly always when speaking of an attractive city, is that of a place which appeals to the eye and pleases the senses of the observer. But this should not be the consideration of prime importance.

The attractiveness of a town should consist of those things which make the individual home attractive. In a home of this description, the adornment of grounds and the ornamentation of buildings comes as a matter of course, but not as the really essential thing. The real attractiveness of the home is found within. The ideal home is homelike, friendly, a something to be desired; where every member contributes freely his part of those things that make it attractive.

The town that is artistically attractive appeals to the eye of the passer by; it may even successfully lure him to become a part of it and so be effective in its own upbuilding. But suppose that after the stranger has built him a home in the "attractive" town, he finds that the atmosphere lacks congeniality, warmth, home-likeness, what then? The possibility is that he moves on again, seeking this time the town that is not so pleasing to the eye, but the atmosphere of which is warmer to the heart of him!

We are living lives that are too self-centered; we move in our little circles in society, the lodge or the church and fancy that what we do is well done. But the stranger among us complains that no one calls upon him, that he is introduced to no one, and that his neighbors do not seem to care whether he continues to exist or not. This is not a condition that can exist in the ideal attractive town, yet it does exist in our own community to an extent that is not generally recognized—except by the newcomer.

Let us have all the outward adornments that constitute the City Beautiful, but let us endeavor to build up a well deserved reputation as the place where people are made to feel at home.

We are led to indite the above homily by the fact that we meet from time to time, newcomers who complain and, it seems to us with justice, of this callous indifference to them on the part of our people. Probably it is not an exclusive characteristic of Glendale; we fancy that the charge will also lie against other communities; but it is something that really should be remedied. It is as important a matter as any of the subjects of general interest which we have to deal with, and it should be taken hold of by our people in a spirit that insures a warmer place in our midst for the stranger who comes among us.

NOTICE OF STREET WORK

Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, on the 23d day of October, 1907, did, at its meeting on said day, adopt a Resolution of Intention, No. 100, to order the following street work to be done, to-wit:

Second. That a cement curb be constructed along the southerly side of Ninth Street from the southerly prolongation across Ninth Street of the easterly line of Granada Street, as said Granada Street is shown on a map of the Glendale Garden Home Tract, recorded in Book 11, Page 46 of Maps of Los Angeles County Records, to a point opposite the northwest corner of Lot 2 of E. S. Butterfield's Subdivision, as said subdivision is recorded in Book 18, Page 29, Miscellaneous Records of said Los Angeles County; also along both sides of the roadway of Ninth Street from the southerly prolongation across Ninth Street of the easterly line of Granada Street referred to, to the westerly line of Adams Street, except that said curb shall be omitted on the southerly side of Ninth Street from the point opposite the northeast corner of Lot 1 of said E. S. Butterfield's Subdivision, for a distance of 60 feet easterly therefrom and also omitted on the northerly side of Ninth Street from the southerly prolongation across Ninth Street of the easterly line of said Granada Street for a distance of 25 feet easterly therefrom; and also excepting along such portion of the line of the said roadway upon which a cement curb has already been constructed to the official line and grade), in accordance with specifications for the construction of cement curbs on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale said specifications being numbered 2; excepting that said curbs shall be placed a distance of 12 feet from the property lines instead of as specified in said specifications.

Section 2. That the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale hereby finds upon estimates directed to be furnished and furnished by the City Engineer, that the total cost of said improvements will be greater than fifty cents per front foot along each side of said street, including the cost of intersections, and it is hereby determined, in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, as amended by an Act of the Legislature amending said last named Act, which amended Act became a law March 2, 1899, that bonds shall be issued to represent the cost of said improvements. Said bonds shall be serial, extending over a period of ten years and an even proportion of the principal sum of such bonds shall be payable annually by coupon on the second day of January of each year after their date until the whole are paid, and said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of seven (7) per cent. per annum on all sums unpaid, payable semi-annually by coupon, on the second days of January and July of each and every year.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

W. L. CRISSEY.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 24.—The people of Oregon and Washington have been especially pleased over a Thanksgiving Proclamation issued by the Portland Commercial Club and furnished the papers of the two States, showing the wheat and flour shipments of Columbia River and Puget Sound ports. For the ten months beginning January 1st and ending October 31st, there were exported from Portland and Puget Sound ports (including Seattle, Tacoma and other points) a total of 8,893,480 bushels of wheat, and a total of 3,561,726 barrels of flour. The exact figures are:

Portland, 5,380,050 bushels of wheat; 1,168,886 barrels of flour; Seattle, Tacoma and other Sound ports, 3,513,430 bushels of wheat; 2,392,840 barrels of flour.

Great as are these figures, they sink into insignificance when compared with the two months of October and November, when the value of the exports of wheat, barley and flour alone added $150,000 per day to the wealth of Oregon and Washington, and according to the very best possible authority this average will be maintained until February 1st, 1908. Wheat and barley shipments from Portland and Puget Sound for these two months were 7,434,691 bushels; flour shipments, 640,012 barrels.

Oregon fruits of every kind have brought record prices; the State's dairy product will reach a value of $17,000,000; the lumber trade has had the greatest year in its history.

With these facts as a basis, the representatives of the seventy-six commercial bodies throughout Oregon which compose the Oregon Development League met in Portland on December 1st, expressed enthusiastic confidence in the outlook and reminded the people of Oregon in resolutions unanimously adopted that the crops now being moved and marketed will soon add $30,000,000 in cash to the active circulating medium of the State. There was a unanimous sentiment that no special session of the legislature was either necessary or advisable at this time.

The close relations between California and Oregon were discussed at considerable length at this gathering, as was the idea that the entire coast should act in complete harmony in all matters affecting the welfare of this section of the country. Very satisfactory reports were received during this meeting from several California points, and this was especially true from representatives of houses having establishments in both States. It is universally conceded that with matters straightened out in New York and Chicago there will be no hesitation in the prosperity of the Pacific Coast.

The week of prayer will be observed at the Presbyterian church by daily sessions to which everyone is invited. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday sessions will be held at 7:30 p.m. On Tuesday and Thursday the session will be held at 3 p.m.

The W. F. M. society of the Glendale M. E. church, meets on Thursday afternoon, January 9th, at 2 o'clock, at the church. The branch quarterly of this society meets in the First M. E. church, Los Angeles, on Wednesday, January 8th—an all-day meeting.

Watch-night services were held at the M. E. church last Tuesday evening. Service began at 1030 and there was a fair attendance. Just as the old year died and the new year dawned, Mr. William P. MacMullin and Mrs. Helen E. DeLaine, who are boarding at Woods hotel, presented themselves at the altar for marriage, and began the new year together.

Mrs. M. O. Ryan entertained a few friends with a "watch-night" party on Tuesday evening. Christmas holly and live oak were used to pretty effect. Corn-popping and music furnished amusement, and reminiscent stories of other years were told before a roaring grate fire. Later there were coffee and sandwiches and many happy wishes for the season were exchanged.

Married: At the close of the watch-night services in the Methodist church just after midnight, Mrs. Helen DeLaine and Mr. William MacMullin, both of Glendale, the Rev. Burton officiating. The marriage was witnessed by a number of friends and those who attended the watch-night services. The ceremony was made a most impressive one, coming as it did during the first moments of the new year. Mr. and Mrs. MacMullin will reside in Glendale, where they will be at home to their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward entertained with a New Year's dinner at their cozy little home on Fourth street, where roses, and then more roses, were used profusely in the simple and effective decorative scheme. Many of the guests are recent arrivals from Canada, and to them the "Christmas roses" were a delight. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. John Addison, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Addison and children, Mr. and Mrs. F. Addison and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Ward and daughter, Lillian, and the host and hostess.

Miss Austene George, niece of Mrs. L. C. Brand, entertained elaborately with a New Year's dancing party on Wednesday evening at the Country Club, and it proved one of the most brilliant of the fashionable affairs given here this season. The ballroom was festooned with holly berries and red tulle, and flaming poinsettias were used en masse. The tennis court was converted into an oriental bower, myriads of Japanese lanterns lighting the dark like so many gay fireflies. Stamm's orchestra of Los Angeles furnished the music. A special car conveyed the many guests who arrived from Los Angeles, Hollywood and Pasadena. Miss George was assisted by her aunt, Mrs. L. C. Brand, and a bevy of pretty society girls, Miss Josephine McMillan, Miss Sally Utley, Miss Florence Clarke, Miss Helen McDonald, Miss Florence Avery and Miss Gladys Reynolds, of Los Angeles. About one hundred guests were present.

On Monday morning at nine o'clock, at the home of her parents, William and Eva Wood, of Wood's Hotel, Brand boulevard, Miss Leilla S. Francis Wood passed away after an illness extending over two years. The hopeful patience of the sufferer, the devotion of her loved ones, various changes of location and climate, proved of no avail, and like a fair young flower she passed, stepped from the threshold of this life at the close of the old year, whose steps she followed as it left us, to become, like the year, a precious memory of a life and living. She entered quietly upon the full joy of the New Year with life eternal for her gift.

On Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock funeral services were held in the Pulliam undertaking parlors, the Rev. Burton, of the Methodist-Episcopal church, officiating. Interment took place in beautiful Forest Lawn. The bereaved family has the sympathy of the entire community for their loss.

One of the most successful social affairs of the holiday season was the public installation of officers for Carnation Rebekah Lodge, No. 237, on New Year's night, in the Odd Fellows' hall. Mrs. Lizzie Alexander, with her efficient corps of installing officers, from Los Angeles, officiated.

The drill work by the installing officers, given at the completion of impressive installation ceremonies, was very pretty and was thoroughly enjoyed as one of the best features of the evening. At the close of the official program, the appreciative audience, which filled the hall to overflowing, listened to an exquisite musical number given by Mrs. Walter C. Fraley and Mrs. Mabel Eackman. A sweet lullaby was given as the encore insistently called for, the sort of a lullaby that touches the world-heart with the sweetest and tenderest of memories. Miss Birdie Shropshire delighted every one with a bright and humorous reading, given so well that the young reader was obliged to satisfy the audience with an encore.

There came a charming social hour when fruitade and dainty wafers refreshed the many guests.

The hall had been decorated tastefully for the occasion, real geraniums, greenery, flaming poinsettias and Christmas bells being used in the decorative scheme. A hot supper was served the Los Angeles guests in another part of the hall, prior to their departure for the city.

DANCE AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

The Country Club gave a dance on New Year's eve at the Club house, which was one of the most enjoyable of the numerous successful events that have taken place there. Nearly a hundred people were present, a very large proportion of whom took part in the dancing, although a few enjoyed some sociable games of whist in the card room. Notwithstanding the large number present, the spacious rooms of the club were not crowded beyond comfort. Excellent music was furnished, and a long program of short dances gave the trippers of the "light fantastic" ample opportunity to glide over the excellent dancing floor in the rhythmic time of waltzes and two-steps, to their full satisfaction until 1908 was ushered in—and after!

PRESBYTERIAN BROTHERHOOD.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of this organization held at the residence of Rev. S. L. Ward on last Tuesday evening. The usual program was varied by a debate between the younger members who all acquitted themselves well. The members participating in the debate were Ray Morrow, Clyde Morrow, Kenneth Barager, Chas. Brown, Cyril Wilde, and Lawrence Ward. The older members of the society enjoyed the exercises greatly.

BUSINESS OF THE GLENDALE POSTOFFICE.

The growth of Glendale for the past year is shown in a striking manner by the statistics of the local postoffice. The sales of the office for 1906 amounted to $2247.00; for 1907 they were $3400.00. In December of 1906 the receipts were $312.00, and in Dec. 1907, $517.85.

A CHARMING HOME WEDDING.

At eight o'clock on New Year's night, Miss Emma Bercau was united in marriage to Mr. J. Henry Panky, of Covina, at the home of the bride's parents on Adams street. In the reception hall the mantle, banked with white, served as a background for the bridal party. Over their heads was woven a snowy white canopy, with here and there a spray of smilax. Mrs. O. E. Patterson played softly the old sweet wedding march, "O Promise Me," accompanied by Clarence Peck on the violin. The bride entered gowning in whitest silk with lace over-dress, and carrying pale pink carnations with maiden hair fern. The Rev. O. Williams of Los Angeles, read the beautiful marriage service, after which congratulations and a sumptuous wedding supper were in order. The back parlor, done in pale lavender and green, contained the tables of wedding gifts, which were indeed numerous and beautiful. In the dining room the color scheme being red and green, poinsettias and garlands of crimson tissue were employed. Later Mr. and Mrs. Panky departed for Covina, their future home, where a prettily furnished bungalow all ready for housekeeping, awaited them. Guests included many old-time friends of Los Angeles and Glendale.

NEW YEARS DAY IN GLENDALE.

1908 was ushered in quietly and the first day of the year found the streets almost deserted. All business houses were closed and the observance of the holiday was general. Every owner of an automobile or a good horse was off early for Pasadena and those with slower means of locomotion went also. After crowding around the postoffice for their morning mail, the people who did not go to the tournament, dispersed to their several homes or went to dine with friends, the commuting suburbanite staying home to dig.

The newly organized gun club at their range near Verdugo Road, had a good shooting match and the boys had a match game of baseball at Verdugo Road and Third street; accounts of these events appearing elsewhere. The bunch of new resolutions was about the average size and it is fervently to be hoped that the good ones will be lived up to. The weather was pleasant, the sky slightly overcast and a pleasant breeze stirring. The slight promise of much needed rain was in itself a hopeful omen of good for the year just beginning.

GLENDALE TAXES.

Glendale city taxes became delinquent on the last day of the year. The total collections were $6896.67 out of a total of $8003.61, leaving a delinquency of $1106.94. The delinquent list is much larger probably than it would have been had the payment of county taxes not been postponed. As it was, there were a number of property owners who consequently assumed that the postponement of delinquency would apply to municipal as well as county taxes. Ten per cent. is now added in all cases and after the publication of the delinquent list about January 18th, there will be an additional charge for advertising of fifty cents per lot.

WATCH-NIGHT PARTY.

There was a watch-night party at the home of Miss May Fanset, last Tuesday evening, which was enjoyed by about 30 guests. The evening was pleasantly passed by the playing of games, and the discussion of the innumerable topics of personal and general interest which appropriately suggested themselves on such occasions. Refreshments were also discussed in a practical manner and the old year was ushered out and the new one in, in a spirit befitting the occasion.

Grammar School

Cecile Burton entered the school on Monday, being assigned to the eighth grade.

Sessions were resumed Monday with an enrollment of 358 pupils, of whom 211 are boys.

Mrs. Anderson, formerly of the San Pedro schools, is temporarily filling the place of her sister, Miss Hall, who is still unable to resume her work as teacher of drawing.

All the rooms have been furnished with new flags, of which the pupils are properly proud. Window boxes have been added to the windows of the second and third grades and a large number of new plants are being started.

Meeting of High School Trustees

An important meeting of the trustees of the High School District was held Thursday afternoon. All members present except Mr. Richardson. The object of the meeting was to receive bids for sites for the proposed new building. The following proposals were received:

Five acres in Childs Tract, Sixth and Glendale avenue, price $9000.

5.35 acres in Stepper Block, Central avenue and Fourth (street work not included), price $13,000.

The place formerly owned by Hobbs, Ninth and Central avenue, 11.94 acres, price $21,000.

Block 63, corner Boulevard and Sixth streets, price $20,400.

Lots 49 to 84 (about block and half) Glendalia Park Tract, Brand Boulevard and Second street, price $20,000.

The trustees being unable to agree upon any of the sites offered, agreed to unite upon any block that might be selected by a committee within the following limits: Between Fourth and Sixth streets, and between Glendale avenue and Brand Boulevard. The committee consists of E. D. Goode and Daniel Campbell.

One block that appears to be favorably looked upon is Block 61, bounded by M street on the west and Fifth street on the north, containing about five acres. This belongs to a number of owners and would have to be negotiated for.

It is hoped that property owners will be reasonable in their ideas of value. They can gain nothing by asking higher prices than the ordinary market warrants, as the board can obtain property under condemnation proceedings. Another thing to be considered is that the people are not disposed to pay any fancy prices for property and will not vote for any site which has an unreasonable price attached to it.

F. and A. M. Installation

Last Saturday evening the installation services of the recently elected officers of Unity Lodge, F. and A. M., were held in Masonic Hall, and were largely attended.

D. R. Weller, past master of Southern California Lodge, presided as installing officer, assisted by W. E. Rowley, also a past master of Southern California Lodge, as marshal.

The officers installed included Frank E. Albright, worshipful master; Daniel Campbell, senior warden; Arthur Campbell, junior warden; Asa Fanset, treasurer; Richard Sternberg, secretary; J. H. Henry, chaplain; C. F. Parker, marshal; Reuben Zinn Imier, senior deacon; C. W. McFadden, junior deacon; A. W. Tower, senior steward; David H. Imier, junior steward; Jesse Stine, tiler.

At the close of the ceremonies, George U. Moyses presented the retiring master, William A. Thompson, a handsome past master's jewel. Mr. Thompson responded in an eloquent manner.

Frank Albright, the newly installed master, made an interesting speech, after which Hon. Theodore Kanouse, past grand master of Wisconsin and for many years a resident of Glendale, delivered an able address which appealed most forcibly to his many friends present. Vocal selections were rendered by Mr. Bernardo.

City Planning and Its Adaptation to the Town

The planning of municipal improvements is not a thing peculiar to the large city. The idea is spreading and is being adapted to smaller localities. This summer several towns have held conferences with municipal architects, in order to devise ways and means for improving their surroundings. Charles M. Robinson has during the past summer, given professional advice to Watertown, Ogdensburg and Jamestown, in the State of New York. California is the Mecca of tourist travel in America. Her towns desire to grow; but inasmuch as Eastern towns are being made more attractive, unless the West keeps pace, and relies upon some other asset than natural advantage, the tourist will not feel the same desire to remain within her borders. The value of a gem is enhanced by its setting, and attractiveness of setting is the greatest possible asset to any community. To work systematically and consistently toward this end, does not necessarily mean the expenditure of a large sum of money. The path to improvement in a small community is shorter because there is less to be undone. There, everything is nearer nature's ideal, and what is equally important, real estate values are generally lower; so that when in the course of improvements land must be purchased, the prices do not make such purchases well-nigh prohibitive.

However, a small community is apt to feel that it is not equal to the occasion, and that it cannot make the outlay required for needed improvements. If it improves a street now and then, or mends a cement sidewalk, it feels that it has done all that is possible. To all doubtful doubters, the little town of Girard, Pa., with its population of 1200 furnishes an inspiring example. A meeting was held there at which some contemplated improvements were discussed. The unanimous opinion was that they were out of the question because of the expense involved. Shortly after, fifty women organized a Town Improvement Society, charging a membership fee of twenty-five dollars. A report of their first meeting was published and others were asked to join. More money to carry on the work was raised by canvassing, by membership dues, socials and sales. In two years time, not only had everything which was declared impossible, been accomplished, but much more besides. A monument, surrounded by an iron fence which enclosed an unsightly crop of weeds had stood in the middle of one of the principal streets. The fence was removed, the weeds cleared away, and an ornate cement curbing was constructed around the monument. Streets were cleaned and improved; sidewalks were repaired and extended; telegraph poles were planted about with shrubs and dahlias and festooned with vines; new trees were planted, and neglected trees were trimmed, and the town took on the appearance of a new place. A similar work was done in Victoria, Tex. Here, too, civic improvement was brought about by the women. A "civic day" was arranged for, and among other things that marked the day, was the opening of the "civic letter box" which had been set up some time before, and in which suggestions for the improvement of the town, had been accumulating. Greenville, S. C., was another town to evolve a scheme touching its future development along definite lines. It has during the past summer mapped out a plan which it intends to follow in its future development, a plan which includes a consideration of the nature of the streets, the uniform planting of trees, lighting the regulation of business and street signs, the location of alleys, the removal of overhead wires, the abolition of grade crossings, means for proper sanitation and measures for the abatement of public nuisances, the improvement of vacant lots, the location and improvement of parks, playgrounds, public gardens and cemeteries.

To the majority of California towns nature has been prodigal in the allotment of attractions, and practically all that is needed to be done is to give attention to the condition of the streets, sidewalks, telephone poles, lawns, vacant lots, and railway stations. A very important consideration to be continually borne in mind is the necessity of preserving all that is already possessed. How many years have been lost to the cause of civic adornment because a city's officials have persisted in disregarding all ideas of beauty by cutting down rows of stately trees to widen or straighten sidewalks and streets, or by allowing the erection of graceful lines of slender telephone poles to mar the effect of well-planted streets! Another thing to remember is to make use of all natural advantages. Everyone familiar with Washington, recalls the pleasing effect as he looked up the long vistas formed by the streets being planted uniformly with trees, to the Capitol looming up in the background. There is hardly a town in California that is not near or in plain sight of some mountain, infinitely more imposing than even the white dome of the Capitol. What a sublime object will which to close the vistas of more important streets as they stretch away from the commercial center of the city. How much better such streets than those "leading past everything and to nowhere" as are so many of our streets which are laid out on the gridiron plan. Nearly every town is also situated within easy reach of some beautiful mountain canyon. Most of these canyons are now open to the public, but before long they may be closed or turned to commercial advantage. Why not obtain possession of them in time, and set them apart for the perpetual recreation of the community. It may be that there is no pressing need for them at present, but how about the opportunity for play and recreation which future growth will demand?

Not every town, in fact, very few small towns, can afford to place the work of designing their streets and future parks in the hands of a skilled landscape architect, but there are few communities so poor in initiative that they cannot organize and sustain an effective local improvement society. Let them set apart some time when as many experts as will volunteer their services, or at best respond for a small sum, will visit their town and confer with them on the local situation. Let them early arrive at some fundamental scheme for improvement which will preserve all that is best in their community, and enhance the beauty of their location; and then let them go slowly, steadily forward, certain that each step is in the right direction. They may not be able to complete the work outlined much less attain their ideal in two years or a dozen years, but if the work is intelligently performed they will one day have a town replete with conveniences; a sanitary place in which to dwell, and a delight to the eye. Every cent expended will be repaid many times in the sense of satisfaction and pride which justly comes to a citizen of a beautiful and well-appointed community. It will also be amply repaid in the advantages which will come in attracting the outsider of means, and in inducing the resident to spend his money in his own town. Even the most obstinate doubter will be led to confess by the logic of facts, that in every sense "beauty pays."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Boys' Basket ball team formally disorganized on Monday after a very successful season. They were defeated only once, and that by Whittier, the champions of several seasons. The Glendale boys thus won second place in the league. As Goodsell is the only member leaving school this year, prospects are good for next year. Clarence Emery, who has done such clever work as forward this term, was elected captain and manager of next year's team.

The Girls' Basket ball team was the recipient of a very handsome present from some of the citizens of Glendale and Tropic, in the shape of a half eagle. This money will probably be expended in buying a large school pennant such as that carried by South Pasadena upon their visit here. The girls wish to thank publicly Mr. Brand, Mr. Sterling, Mr. Collins, Mr. Campbell, Mr. Davenport and Mr. Black for their generosity to the team.

A number of the students are absent on account of sickness. Miss Etta Terry has the typhoid fever, Miss Christa Brown has the rheumatism, Miss Steele has had to give up school on account of her eyes. But we are hoping to see them return soon.

Miss Louena Van Norman has left Glendale to enter Los Angeles High school on account of the removal of her parents to the city.

At a meeting of the track enthusiasts on Tuesday, Joy Goodsell was elected captain of the team for this year. Glendale will be represented in the league both in track and football.

A number of the girl students who can not and do not participate in Basket ball are asking for general gymnastic training. It would be an excellent thing in the school if it could be arranged as it is a well-known fact that most girls in high school do not get enough exercise. But, owing to the crowded condition of the school it may not be arranged this year.

Miss Hall, the drawing teacher, is still absent. She has not recovered as quickly as was hoped for at first. Mrs. Anderson, her sister, is substitute for her this week.

A class is now being held from 8:30 to 9:00 each morning in Latin by Miss McLean, for the students who are behind in that subject.

Miss Traphagen, the senior class teacher, was the recipient of a very handsome Christmas present from her class in the form of a Stanford cushion.

It is rumored that suit will be brought to enforce the payment of the damages awarded to the junior class by Judge Susemihl if the senior class does not pay up immediately.

NEW YEARS DAY AT THE GUN CLUB GROUNDS.

About twenty enthusiastic members of the Gun Club and some interested spectators, spent the day at the club's new shooting range, east of Verdugo road, back of the Woodberry hill. There were about thirty fowls up as prizes for the winners and interest in the different contests was kept up until dark. In the rifle range at the 200-yard range, there were excellent scores made, Llewellyn Andrews making the best shot, a three-inch bull's eye at 200 yards. At the previous contest on the range, Mr. J. Addison carried off the honors, making a score of 24 out of a possible 25. There was some good trap shooting also and the fact was established beyond doubt that Glendale has plenty of material for a first-class team of crack shots.

Mr. H. A. Goodwin has started a new residence on the Borthick tract, Ninth street. A good brick foundation supports the structure, which will be of frame, one story with a gable.

On Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Patterson, on Everett street, Miss Bertha and Mrs. O. E. Patterson honored with a china and package shower Miss Emma Bercan, soon to become the bride of J. H. Panky. The home was tastefully arranged with roses and delicate greenery. The opening of the parcels occasioned many surprises and pleasures and some appropriate "heart" games were played. The dainty refreshments served were quite in keeping with the affair. Guests were old-time friends and school mates, including among many Glendale friends, Mrs. Maynard and Miss Nola and Miss Nina Lyman, of Los Angeles.

"WERE HALF THE POWER."

Were half the power that fills the world with terror,

Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts,

Given to redeem the human mind from error,

There were no need of arsenals or forts.

The warrior's name would be a name abhorred!

And every nation, that should lift again

Its hand against a brother, on its forehead

Would wear forevermore the curse of Cain!

Down the dark future, through long generations,

The echoing sounds grow fainter and then cease;

And like a bell, with solemn, sweet vibrations,

I hear once more the voice of Christ say, "Peace."

LONGFELLOW.

"THE STARRY HOST."

NO. II.

Let us revert, for a few moments, to our illustration of a person riding in a train, looking at a fixed object, such as a church, constantly changing its direction as the train advanced. So, it was thought by former generations of astronomers, we should see the stars constantly change direction as we advanced with the earth on its tremendous journey round the sun. And as the country viewed from, say, Mount Verdugo, presents a totally different aspect from that as viewed from another eminence, ten miles away, so, it was thought, the constellation should present an entirely different appearance as viewed from the different points along the earth's orbit. For although the ancients knew the stars were outside the solar system, they did not think they were very far beyond it. And the fact that the constellations showed no change at any time of the year was a great difficulty to the acceptance of the Copernican system, with the sun in the center, instead of the earth; and was one of the main arguments on which Ptolemy based his contention that the earth was the central orb, and did not move. It was held that if the earth really moved round the sun, its vast annual journey would carry us quite out of sight of the visible constellations altogether, and into a strange region whose appearance would be entirely different from that with which mankind has been familiar since the dawn of history. And, indeed, unless the stars were at practically infinite distances from us, this certainly would be the case. The mistake lay in supposing them to be so near and it was only as conceptions of the visible universe gradually immensely enlarged, that the enormous distances of the stars came to be realized.

All our methods of direct measurement of stellar distances depend on the Copernican fact that the earth in June is 184 million miles away from its position in December, and that, accordingly, some slight change in the direction, grouping, and general aspect of the stars and constellations might be expected from so different a point of view. In a general way, this change of apparent direction of an object arising from a change in the position of the observer, is termed its parallax. The great difficulty in the case of the stars is that such an enormous change of position exhibits so small a parallax. And in availing ourselves of the annual swing of the earth to secure a base line for observation, we are doing our utmost; there is no larger standard in nature for us, inhabitants of this earth, to measure by. If we were on a planet further removed from the sun, say Saturn or Neptune, we should, of course, have a much more extended base line, and probably would get a much more appreciable parallax for the nearer stars, and for those which, with our present limited base, exhibit no parallax at all, we should gain a parallax which would enable us to determine their distances also. According to Professor Simon Newcomb, the simplest conception of an angle of one second of arc is reached by thinking of it as the angle measured by the apparent length of a short line, at a distance of 206,265 times its own length. To say that a star has a parallax of one second, would, therefore, be the same as saying that it is at a distance of 206,265 times that of the sun from the earth. A parallax of one-half a second indicates a distance twice as great, which is the case of the star 61 Cygni, mentioned in our last paper.

The total number of stars in the heavens visible to good eyesight is estimated at 5000; the best telescopes reveal fifty millions. The number able to impress a photographic plate is greater still. Indeed, as we can conceive no limit to space, which we must believe to be absolutely infinite, so, it seems highly probable, there is no limit to the countless host of stars. That was the conception of a celebrated mathematician named Lambert, who lived in the latter part of the eighteenth century. He assumed a universe constructed on an extension of the solar system, to quote Professor Newcomb again. The smallest system of bodies is composed of a planet with its satellites. We see a number of such systems, designated the terrestrial, the Martian, the Jovian, the Saturnian, etc., all revolving round the sun, and thus forming one greater system—the solar system. Lambert extended the idea by supposing that a number of solar systems, each formed of a star with its revolving planets and satellites; were grouped into yet a greater system; that a number of such groups form the great system which we call the galaxy, and which comprises all the stars we can see with the telescope. All these systems again, may revolve around some distant center, and so on to an indefinite extent. Grand as this conception is, however, it is said that modern developments show no scientific basis for it. It is, nevertheless, true, that our own sun is one of the stars, and is traveling in an orbit of his own, and carrying with him on his unknown journey, all his attendant planets with their satellites. Reasoning from analogy it is fair to assume that the stars are suns, also—some vastly larger than our own, forming the center of beautiful systems, replete with teaming life and intelligence.

X-RAY.

THE TOURNAMENT OF ROSES AT PASADENA.

The annual festival of flowers at Pasadena was probably the most successful this year of all the observances of the day which has drawn upon Pasadena, the eyes of tourists the world over. The display was better than usual as the season so far has been favorable to roses and other flowers, and they were in evidence on New Years Day in great profusion, a brilliant object lesson illustrating the possibilities of California air, soil and sunshine. The crowd of outsiders who witnessed the events, is estimated at from fifty to sixty thousand.

Naturally, a few minutes were allowed the lads and lassies to recount the happy vacation at their homes, of the jolly Saint Nicholas.

ADMIRAL EVANS AND NAVAL GUNNERY.

Admiral Evans before sailing from Hampton Roads with his fleet to the Pacific, made a speech in which he had the following to say about our naval target practice:

"A few more words about your navy: When I took command I knew we had done good target practice, but in the last practice in Massachusetts Bay I believe that we excelled any nation on earth. I believe that we have pulled out ahead of everybody. We put out two targets thirty feet by thirty and steamed past, at a distance of about five and a quarter miles. We picked up the range as if in battle and opened fire. Taking the case of the Connecticut, that battleship got on the target on her third shot at 8600 yards, and in 2 minutes and 15 seconds she had blown the target screens completely off the target. When we picked them up we found that in a thirty foot screen the Connecticut had planted four 12-inch, nine 8-inch and seventeen 7-inch projectiles. This means that had it been another battleship instead of a target it would have been cut in two within 2 minutes and 15 seconds.

"In our night practice each battleship had to stand off a combined attack of three torpedo boats coming at high speed. There wasn't a single ship that didn't according to the rules, hit all three torpedo boats enough times to have blown them to pieces. So you see what our boys are capable of doing.
